THIRD YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1894.

ONE CENT.

IT'S SO IF IT'S IN THE LEDGER.

We are ready to meet all competition on dry goods, carpets, etc. Hoeflich Bros.

The California Horse, the best on earth, for sale at auction at William Wormald's Coal Elevators Wednesday at 1 o'clock p. m. sharp.

JUDGE WILLIAM R. THOMPSON died at Shepherdsville, aged 83. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1849-50.

MRS. WILLIAM HANCOCK died Saturday at her home near Aberdeen, at an advanced age. Her remains were interred yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at Charter Oak Cemetery. Her husband died in 1890.

The farm of Attorney General W. J. Hendrick near Frankfort, containing ninety-seven acres, was sold to the Frankfort Safety Vault and Trust Company for $12,500. There is a magnificent residence which alone cost several times as much as the whole property brought.

SEAMLESS hose, ladies' and misses', 10 cents, worth 15 cents. Hoeflich's.

A GOOD(?) BEGINNING,

Which an Unfortunate Witness Follows Up to Old Age.

The utter stupidity and ignorance of some people—our own neighbors often—can hardly be realized. There is no better place to find this fact out than in the Police Court, and almost every day there are cases which come up where violations of the law are made through total ignorance, or dereliction of duty.

The violator seems to forget that he or she is only one among millions, but entertain the idea that no one lives but he and his immediate associates.

More than once was this fact exemplified yesterday afternoon in Judge Wormald's Court when James Hilderbrand was being tried on the charge of disorderly conduct.

It was not the accused one who would attract any attention in the case, but some of the witnesses introduced and while their evidence may appear funny to the reader it only shows the ignorance of the witness.

For instance: Mrs. Gray, who never lives in one place over a month, (according to her own testimony) said in reply to the question why she hesitated to tell all she knew about the case:

"Well, I'll tell you, Mister Judge, I wasn't raised to talk too much, and I ain't no 'gint' either. I'll tell you the truth as I always do, and I won't say more than I know. No, sir, I wasn't raised to talk, and ain't raisin' my children that way."

She went on at a lively gait for fully five minutes, and then said in reply to a question regarding a pistol the defendant was charged with having:

"You see, the second time he took out that 'revolver I was faintest. I always do that way. I was faintest that way. I never seed no such things afore, and the second time I faintest. I didn't know what he was goin' to do with it, so I faintest until it was put away."

"How long did you remain 'faintest'?" asked Judge Wormald.

"Well, now, honestly, I don't know that. Maybe it was an hour and maybe it wasn't. You see, I don't have clock time; don't believe in it. And then I wasn't raised that way."

"Well," said the Judge, "do you often faint?"

"Yes, I do. When I get sick I get sick pretty quick, I do. I was raised that way. Now, that's all I know."

And she was dismissed.

Lulu Bogus, a rather pretty young girl who her mother, Mrs. Gray, swore was only 16 years old, next took the stand, and after telling about her children, three in number, began relating what she knew about the case.

She said the reason that "Bill" had out the revolver was because they were all "afraid of the Lord," and that they sang hymns, etc., to keep him away.

Other witnesses were introduced, but all the testimony went in the same direction, and "Bill" was dismissed.

But he didn't get to leave the Court-room, N. indeed. You see, there was another warrant out against him for fighting on a street car some time ago, and he was arrested on that charge and will have a hearing Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Some pretty strong evidence has been secured against him in this case, and he will probably get a good dose.

The Best Yet.

The celebration of the Thirty-first anniversary of Pythianism by Limestone Lodge No. 36 at Neptune Hall last night was an event that will be long remembered.

As early as 8 o'clock couples began arriving and at about 9 o'clock, when the first set was danced, the large hall was filled to its capacity. The crowd was a jolly one and the committee from the Lodge left nothing undone that would add to the pleasure of their guests.

The Mayville Orchestra furnished excellent music. The supper served was a very tasty and well gotten up bill of fare and thoroughly enjoyed by all who had the privilege of participating in it.

All the evening was a grand success, and many were the compliments passed to the credit of Limestone Lodge No. 36.

Merchants, Attention!

Please read THE LEDGER'S proposition, under head of "Where to Deal," to be found in another column, and then have your name placed "on the list."

Public Cordially Invited.

The Ben Franklin Lyceum has prepared an especial program for the celebration of Washington's Birthday this evening.

Professor Rowland and Phil H. Kemper have charge of the music, songs, etc. Judge A. A. Wadsworth, C. Burgess Taylor, Professor Rowland and Ben T. Cox will deliver orations suitable to the occasion.

The exercises will commence promptly at 7 o'clock.

Visiting Railroad Men.

Mayville is honored with the presence of three prominent railway representatives, viz:

G. B. Warfel, Assistant General Passenger Agent Baltimore and Ohio Passenger Railway, with headquarters at Cincinnati.

Robert E. Breder, Traveling Passenger Agent Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, of Cincinnati, and lastly, Thomas A. Garrigan, E. A. B. and O. S. W. R. W. and G. T. A. O. and M. R. W. and G. G. F. Generally. The latter gentleman had hard work to get all his titles off the train.

What They Did.

The Grand Jury has reported indictments as follows:

George Grabhorn, for forgery.

W. W. Watkins and Charles Newdell, for fighting chicken cocks.

Mayville and Mr. Carmel Turnpike Company, for charging excessive tolls.

Mayville and Brecken Turnpike Company, for charging excessive tolls.

Mayville and Mr. Sterling Turnpike Company, for charging excessive tolls.

Mayville and Lexington Turnpike Company, for charging excessive tolls.

The Grand Jury also presented its final report and was discharged. The Jury was in session ten days and returned thirty-three indictments.

The jail and other public buildings were examined and found in good condition.

Another Verdict.

The jury in the Hamilton-Shackelford case went into session at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and until nearly 4 o'clock in the afternoon argued as to what damages should be given Miss Lena Hamilton for the failure of Mr. Shackelford in keeping his promise of marrying her.

The case has attracted widespread interest on account of the standing of both parties.

It has too often been related in THE LEDGER to need any repetition. Nothing new was introduced in this trial from previous ones.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of Miss Hamilton for $200, which is the smallest verdict yet given her.

The amount asked for in the original petition was $15,000.

We understand the verdict was in the nature of a compromise, in order that the case might be terminated, which it now is.

give is distinctly inferior to that received by children in the Public Schools, and they do not produce good citizens. For the Roman Catholic Church is in a chronic state of complaint against what is claimed to be the discrimination of the Government against it. It complains that the taxes collected for the support of the Public Schools, open freely to all, are not diverted to the maintenance of the private schools wherein its exclusive religious tenets are taught. It complains against our laws of marriage and divorce, to which it refuses assent. It complains if the question of religion is raised in politics to its disadvantage, though it is forever dragging religion into politics to serve its own ends. It complains, in sum, that there is not a union of church and state in the United States, and Roman Catholicism the established faith. Its priests and nuns and lay teachers are possessed by this spirit of complaint, which of necessity breeds disloyalty, and then give to the parochial schools their atmosphere. False history and garbled science are taught in these nurseries and the pupils are, so far as may be kept from mingling with the American life, taught to look down upon the influence of the common sense of their time. It is not because the Public Schools are "godless"—in the sense of ignoring theology in the curriculum—that the Roman Catholic Church abhors them, but because they are modern in spirit, and that spirit is in the very air of the age. It is the breath of life to Romanism. The parochial school turns out intellectually distorted boys and girls, who, if they have brains, require years of contact with the real world and painful mental struggle to harmonize themselves as American men and women with the sane and unsuperstitious age into which they have been born. Between the Roman Catholic education which Mr. Satolli belauds and American institutions, there is a wide gulf. There never has been and never can be true sympathy. It is in spite of such conceptions of life as the parochial school fosters—conceptions which have put Spain to sleep and kept South America semi-barbarous—that this country has developed its energy and enlightenment. Our material, our intellectual, our moral and religious progress owe nothing to the stationary Church of Rome.

Tolerance is a blessing for which Roman Catholicism is ungrateful. It insists it feels the thrill of power it can afford the meek masses which serve its turn in seasons of weakness, and exhibits the same old bared teeth and sharp claws. It is deceived by its local strength in New York and Maryland into fancying that its change has come over the American people, and that it may dare to advance in the open against non-sectarian, state-paid education. By its mistake it invites a rebuff that will go farther than a mere refusal to let it plunder the School for the Deaf. It is a rebuff that will stand in need of being taught anew that the vast majority of the men of this Republic are resolved to keep the Priest in his ecclesiastical paddock, where it took humanity so many bloody and weary centuries to get him. America is still American.

PAUL KAUFER CO.

ADVANCE sale for Nye-Smith opens at Nelson's to-morrow morning.

The best horse on earth is the California Horse. See them Wednesday at William Wormald's Coal Elevators.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Glass of Maystock neighborhood died Sunday and the remains were interred at Washington yesterday morning.

LIVERTHENS, doctors, butchers, milkmen, grocers, bakers, and laundrymen, don't fail to attend our big advance sale of California Horses. Sale takes place Wednesday at 1 o'clock p. m. at William Wormald's Coal Elevators, Limestone street.

The State Board of Equalization is in session at Frankfort. Nearly one fourth of the members of the board have made their returns for the board to work upon, and to prevent any delay in the Sheriff's getting their tax bills at the proper time, work will be vigorously prosecuted.

The kind little boys of Portsmouth have hit upon a new and novel plan of amusement. They buy a bologna, put it to a string, hold it in a dog passing the barn is enticed into the building, and then deliberately choke it to death with a stick in the manner of an East Indian hog.

EVERYBODY can do it and everybody can drive, for you can buy your California Horse at auction oh, so cheap, at William Wormald's Coal Elevators Wednesday at 1 o'clock p. m.

Successful But Expensive.

Yesterday's LEDGER contained an account of the recovery at Greenup of a skirt stolen from John F. T. of this city. This was not done without considerable outlay of time and money by Mr. Tolle, who had prosecuted the search for several weeks. He kept a "log," which shows that he traveled 614 miles, rowing a skiff and a johnboat 120 miles of the distance. He traveled fourteen days and eleven nights, and answered every fact which he searched. Such perseverance deserves success, and rivermen owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Tolle, whose efforts landed two notorious thieves behind the bars of Castle Kirk. The men claim to be from fronton, and they are wanted at several points for the theft of fishing nets, etc.

What We May Expect For The Next Twenty-four Hours.

THE LEDGER'S WEATHER SIGNALS.

White STROBES—FALL.
Blue—RAIN or SNOW.
With Blue ABOVE—WILL WARMER.
If Black's BENEATH—COLDER WILL BE.
Unless Black's—SHOWN—NO CHANCE WE'LL SEE.

For the above forecasts are made for a period of thirty-six hours, ending at 6 o'clock to-morrow evening.

SAME WITH ALL.

When he ran for Congress He told 'em what he'd do: Put a rope around her And pull the country through; When he got in Congress—Struck the public bin, Lost all hope for with his rope They gently "roped" him in!—Atlanta Constitution.

BILL NYE—William Hawley Smith.

JOHN POE of Murphysville has gotten a release of pension.

The pension of Morris Davis, Flemingburg, has been released.

ADVANCE sale for Paul Kaufers Co. opens at Nelson Thursday morning.

The Mayville Assembly will entertain to-morrow evening at Neptune Hall.

"PAPA, buy me one!" "What say you?" "Why, one of those California Horses. They are the best."

EDWIN C. WHITE, representing in advance the great play, "Paul Kaufers," was a pleasant caller last Saturday.

The steamer Ohio, which plied between Cincinnati and Memphis, was sunk at Cottonwood, Mo., Saturday afternoon.

We believe that every case of pulmonary disease, if treated in time, may be relieved and cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

The tobacco warehousemen of Louisville have addressed a circular letter to the growers, asking them to help the manufacturers fight the "Free Leaf Law."

DR. P. G. SMOOT, having completed a scientific course, will make a specialty of examining eyes and fitting glasses, so there is no longer need to go to Cincinnati to consult specialists.

The anti-poolroom bill which passed the House was defeated in the Senate Saturday by a vote of 48 to 33. The bill came up on an unfavorable committee report after arguments in committee had been heard from the Louisville and Covington poolroom attorneys.

DEAR BRER MARSH, here's another "croak" from the "calamity howler" of the Limestone News.

The mill workers at Brilliant, O., voted down the proposition to resume work at $4 to $6 per ton, fifty cents less than the unorganized scale. The mill is the largest in the Ohio Valley, employing 600 men. It has been idle six months, and will remain so.

The will of Mary V. Mackey, deceased, was yesterday admitted to probate. James Earnshaw, Daniel Osborne and Samuel A. France were appointed appraisers of the estate, while Frank M. Lunsford was qualified as executor.
